Passenger Numbers for Summer 2024

While official numbers aren't in, SLC International expects that the summer 2024 season will have been the busiest on record. Demand continues to be robust, driven by strong leisure growth in addition to a nearly recovered business travel market. Almost every airline at SLC added seat capacity at the airport this summer to new and existing markets, resulting in 6% more seats compared to last summer.

In recent quarterly earnings, however, it was widely reported by U.S. airlines that while demand was at record levels, revenue per passenger was down. This is pushing airlines to tighten up capacity growth beginning this fall and into the winter to boost revenues. Subsequently, seat growth at SLC during the last quarter is anticipated to slow to approximately 3-4% compared to Q4 2023. On October 24, SLC will welcome its 14th carrier and 100th destination when Avelo Airlines launches new weekly service to Santa Rosa/Sonoma, California.
