COUNTDOWN TO 2020

Construction of the first phase of The New SLC has reached the halfway mark and crews have their eye on an opening day in mid-September 2020. There's plenty of concrete to be poured and drywall to be hung, but in the meantime you can get a sense of the finished product through a new virtual reality experience available on the airport's <https://www.slairport.com/thenewslc/rebuild-videos>.

The headline in The Salt Lake Tribune read "Study: Salt Lake City International Airport rebuild injects $5.5 B into local economy, created more than 3,300 jobs." It may be hard to believe, but it's true. A recent study commissioned by SLC Airport measured the ripple effect every dollar spent on construction has in the economy. The numbers don't lie.
